FARIS F. MURDY GOES TO COMING FISTIC COMBAT IN NEW JERSEY

Glendale Will Be Represented at Carpentier-Dempsey Fight on July 4

HAS A RINGSIDE SEAT

Guest of Dempsey at His Camp Two Days Before Date of Fight

Glendale is to be represented at the Carpentier fight in Jersey City, but only incidentally, and that because a Glendale boy is going. The boy is Faris F. Murdy, whose home is at 313 East Elk street. He is the canteen yeoman on the U. S. S. Mississippi which is, in the estimation of Faris and about 1400 other jackies, the finest ship in the United States navy. For weeks the boys on the Mississippi and the other ships in division No. 8 in their hours of leisure have talked of scarce anything but the Carpentier-Dempsey fight and when it was announced that money would be appropriated from the ship's fund to send two men to New York to represent the Mississippi and that the men were to be chosen by popular vote, excitement ran high. The election was held in the reception room of the ship last Friday. The relative rank of the candidates was measured by the credits they had brought the ship or what they had contributed to the pleasure of the men. The polls were open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., and of all the candidates, and they were numerous, Band Leader Walter Harrison and Yeoman Faris Murdy distanced their competitors. Murdy is an all around athlete, and has represented his ship and won credits for it in various events. He has boxed for the Mississippi, wrestled for the middle-weight championship of the Pacific fleet and thrown his opponent in 29 seconds in an unofficial bout, is a star in the football team, has made points as a distance swimmer and was in the whale boat crew that won the Pacific fleet championship for whale boat racing.

The band of the Mississippi is noted in the fleet and Harrison is its leader and always on the job to make it better. His home is in New York, which makes the treat the greater.

The two will leave Los Angeles on the Tod Sloan or Sport Special, the 26th, and expect to have a joyful time on the way.

Lieut. Jack Kennedy, who helped to make Dempsey a champion, is a lieutenant of the Mississippi and a per-

WILL RAISE FUNDS FOR CONSTRUCTION OF NEW SCHOOL BUILDINGS

Steps will be taken during the summer months to prepare for a bond election with a view to raising funds for the construction of new school buildings in the Glendale district, according to Superintendent Richardson D. White, who pointed out in an interview today that on July 5, when the new city charter goes into effect, all barriers to such a bond election will have been removed.

The contfoversy over the Grand View district, which proved the stumbling block in the past to such a bond election, arose over the legality of including that district in the Glendale city school district. With the adoption of the city charter, according to Mr. White, the Grand View district will automatically become a part of the Glendale school system.

Since the assessed valuation of Glendale property will not be determined until September 1, it is probable that no immediate plans will be made to provide for the value of the bonds to be raised, although the needs of the schools will be a matter of prime consideration by the new board to take office on July 5.

On June 23, at the regular meeting of the school board, the matter of teachers' salaries will come up for discussion. Representatives of the Grand View district will be present to offer suggestions for improving school facilities in that section of the city.

REDUCE MILK PRICES WITH MUNICIPAL PASTEUIZING PLANT

Milk distributers for Los Angeles and vicinity who are members of the combine that works a hardship on small children, keeps down the supply of milk, and causes great financial loss to producers whom it forces out of business, has finally killed the goose that laid the golden egg.

One of the wisest Americans that ever lived said, "You can fool all the people some of the time, and some of the people all of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time." This is a truth the milk combine has found to be true; for the people who use milk and pay the exorbitant price for it have finally got into action. They have organized the Milk Consumers' Association in Los Angeles, and one of their first acts was to appoint a committee to prepare a resolution to be sent to the city council, asking that it take steps to provide a municipal pasteurization plant of sufficient size to reduce milk prices and hold them at a reasonable level.

This will give the independent producer a market for his milk; he will not have to sell it to the combine for 6.96 cents or less (in some cases much less); and the consumer will not have to pay the distributers the excess profit which the difference between 16 cents and 6.96 cents gives them, even after deducting the distributing cost.

Members of this committee of the Milk Consumers' association contend that if milk can be sold in Philadelphia, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Milwaukee, Seattle and numerous other sections in the United States at prices running from 8 cents to 12 cents a quart, there is no reason why the price in this section of the country should run from 16 cents to 28 cents a quart.

California, this committee explains, has the best dairy laws in the United States, and milk produced anywhere in the state in compliance with that law is wholesome milk.

The establishment of a pasteurization plant by the city of Los Angeles where the independent producer may find an outlet for his product will regulate prices. Many independent producers have said they would be glad to get out of the clutches of the big distributers; these small producers have repeatedly stated that they would be glad to make use of a city or community pasteurization plant, because they could then deliver their own milk, at a price much lower than the consumer now pays and at a fair profit to the producers themselves.

There is a strong sentiment in favor of this plan in the Los Angeles city council. It is hoped by the Milk Consumers' association to get speedy action on the question.

HEARING BEFORE JUDGE LOWE TODAY

As a result, it is stated, of too much "red eye" during a Sunday celebration, R. H. Cretsinger, a machinist of Los Angeles, is being held in the city jail, having failed to file bail of $300. Cretsinger is charged with driving while intoxicated and is scheduled for a hearing in Judge Lowe's court on July 5.

Returning to Los Angeles in the "wee" hours this morning Cretsinger is said to have collided with a bus going north on the San Fernando road near Colorado street. None of the occupants of the bus were reported injured.

Find Masonic Cornerstone

(By International News Service)

ATLANTA, Ga., June 20.—While excavating for a new office building on the site of the old Bijou theater, workmen discovered the cornerstone of a Masonic temple started in 1859, but never completed. With the country shortly torn by war the cornerstone was afterward believed lost and the Bijou theater built on the site. In an opening of the large rock was found records and rosters of the Masonic organizations of that day, city charter and names of the city officials, current newspapers and magazines, a $5 bill, pieces of silver money, among them two three-cent pieces, and other articles, all of which were placed in the museum of the Masonic Temple.

Text or Tale

(By International News Service)

HIAWATHA, Kan., June 20.—Here's a fishing story which must be believed, for it comes straight from a clergyman. The Rev. Albert C. Stewart, Methodist preacher at Reserve, near here, went fishing in Nemaha river. The fish didn't seem to be biting, so he fastened his pole to the bank and went away for a short time. When he returned he found he had first hooked a small catfish which in turn had been swallowed by a 13-pound channel catfish. It was one case of the "big one" which didn't get away.

CLEANUP TOMORROW IS URGED BY CITY MANAGER ON EVERYONE

With "Cleanup Day" coming tomorrow, City Manager T. W. Watson is making every effort to have the citizens of Glendale cooperate with him and his staff of assistants in making the city as presentable as possible in view of the approaching date of the Christian Endeavor convention. In an effort to impress all with the value of observing "Cleanup Day" Mr. Watson has written the following letter for publication:

"People of Glendale! This is to remind you that tomorrow is Cleanup Day. We feel confident that you will want to take advantage of the provisions that the city has made to remove waste matter of all kinds, the presence of which makes the city unsightly, so we repeat the announcement made several days ago that the city will remove all waste matter and rubbish that cannot conveniently be disposed of on private premises if the same is gathered and placed in receptacles or convenient and compact piles along the streets or alleys by Tuesday evening, the 21st instant.

"As announced before, a committee representing the chamber of commerce and the city has made an extensive inspection of the city and has reported that there are large accumulations of wasie matter and rubbish on some private premises and also in alleys. The largest accumulations noted, however, were in the alleys. These accumulations have been placed there largely by owners of abutting property, therefore the request is made of the owners of such property and rubbish that may be in the alley at the rear thereof into piles. The city will then see that it is removed.

"We are also reminded of the fact that we will shortly have the privilegs of entertaining 4000 delegates to the State Christian Endeavor convention that is to be held in this city from June 25 to 29 inclusive. These people come from all over the state. They are red blooded 100 per cent Americans in the prime of life. Most of these have no doubt heard of Glendale as the fastest growing residence city in the United States, as a city of homes and as a Clean City Kept Clean. Therefore, the city of Glendale is cooperating with all the people in placing everything in order before their arrival. Our civic pride as Glendali-

BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF TUESDAY CLUB WIND UP WITH CHICKEN

Mrs. E. W. Kinney and Mrs. C. E. Norton iwll be hostesses at the final meeting of members of the board of directors of the Tuesday Afternoon Club, who have served the past year and it will be a five-course chicken dinner, with all the toothsome and pretty accessories that the ladies mentioned know how to provide. It will be served at the home of Mrs. Kinney at mid-day.

Covers will be laid for Mrs. Charles E. Hutchinson, the president; Mmes. C. H. Temple, Mabel F. Ocker, W. N. Stamps, Mabel Rudy, A. M. Hunt, C. E. Norton, E. W. Kinney and J. R. White.

A business session will follow the function at which the newly elected directors, Mrs. A. P. Findley, Mrs. O. E. Von Oven and Miss Eva Daniels, will be present.

JUICY BEEFSTEAKS AND LEMONADE ENJOYED

Heavy Batting and Fast Running Are Features of Baseball Game

DR. HOGUE RULED OUT

Fred Deal Was Master of Ceremonies and Prevented Burnt Offerings

About 175 F. & A. M.'s, members of Blue Lodge, Unity Chapter and the Glendale Commandery, in holiday mood, motored to Griffith Park Saturday afternoon for their annual beefsteak barbecue. A site up the canyon under Bee Rock was chosen, and Fred Deal was made master of ceremonies. He was some master, too, for it was his business to see that there were no burnt offerings and that each one of the 175 individual T-bone steaks was done to a T. He therefore took no part in the ball game between the Hoots and the Coots, captained by Henry P. Goodwin, to develop the appetites of the beefsteak eaters.

There is no record of any bootleggers in the party, but there are allusions to a tubful of home brew lemonade. All who acknowledge having had a part in the ball game are rather hazy about who else played and declare that the line-up on both sides represented a procession of players; also that Dr. Hogue had to be ruled out because he insisted on playing for both sides and also as acting as umpire. The doctor says the score at the end of nine innings was 48 to 39 in favor of the Coots, the stars of the contest being Mr. Goodwin, Owen Emery, Charles Ingledue, Wayne Smith and A. J. Van Wie.

The delicious repast resultant of the labors of Mr. Deal stimulated the loquacity of guests and many were the good stories told and the jokes cracked at the expense of the other fellow, but by the time twilight began to darken the canyon, they were ready to turn their faces toward Glendale, and reached here about 8 p. m.

MRS. C. E. PERRY HAS LUNCHEON FOR COLORADO P.-T. A.

A delightful luncheon was given Saturday by Mrs. C. E. Perry of 111 North Louise street to officers of the Colorado Parent-Teacher association, both old and new. Pink and green, the Colorado school colors, featured the table decorations and appointments, the place cards being letters made of Cecil Brunner roses to form the word "Colorado."

For the first time the hostess used a beautiful cloth and napkins, convent work, brought from overseas by her brother, Lieut. R. R. Hyer. The dishes were of fine white and gold china which had been inherited by the hostess from her great-grandmother.

Toys which cleverly indicated the offices held by guests, constituted the favors and created much amusement.

Retiring officers for whom covers were laid were: Mrs. Dotson, past president; the hostess, past vice-president; Mrs. B. L. Cline, past treasurer, and Mrs. Cronkhite, the past and present secretary. New officers were: Mrs. E. S. McKee, president; Mrs. Lewis, vice-president; Mrs. D. W. Brant, treasurer.

Mirror on Fishhook

(By International News Service)

OSWEGO, N. Y., June 20.—No more empty baskets for fishermen. That's what the invention of J. F. Anderson of Minetto—a hook with bait attached—promises. For some months Anderson, a well-known angler, has been experimenting with a small looking glass that goes into the water just behind his baited hook.

The fish, attracted by the reflected light from the mirror, investigates. Then he sees a big angle worm squirming in the water and the reflection of another fish in the mirror about to snatch it away. It becomes a question of who gets it first, and the result is that the sucker is hooked.

"Shiner" on Wedding Day

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO, June 20.—Anthony Jorgesen, manager of a rubber company claims to be Chicago's only "blackeyed" bridegroom.

Jorgesen was wedded to Miss Laura Hansen of Evanston, while carrying two beautifully-decorated eyes. One was black and purple, the other purple and black.

Jorgesen tried to crank his "flivver" on the morning of his wedding. The flivver balked and biffed him between the eyes.

"He looks good enough to me even with 'black eyes,'" said Mrs. Jorgesen as the knot was tied.

NEW FEATURE THAT WILL BE BENEFIT TO READERS AND MERCHANTS

With this issue the Daily Press inaugurates a new feature that is of unusual interest to patrons of Glendale business houses and many others who will be patrons as soon as they read the new department.

This department is adopted by the Daily Press in order to foster in Glendale a finer sense of cooperation between residents of Glendale and the merchants of the city. In other words, the keynote of this department is "Cooperation and the greater friendship of business."

There are many arguments in favor of buying from home merchants. Perhaps the greatest argument is that their success means your success; the growth of local business means the growth of the town, which in turn, means increase in your property value, better buildings, better school facilities, more churches, more opportunities for our young people to find employment at home.

The Daily Press feels that the advantages and attractions of our home stores have never been adequately set forth; and for this reason the new department has been established, with the purpose of serving the shoppers of Glendale.

The woman of the household, especially—and the woman in the home—is the buying agent—will be interested in "Martha Malicia Goes Shopping." This department wil appear on page 2 of the Daily Press on Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

It is a permanent feature and will always be found on page 2.

Martha Malicia has an interesting story to tell you today. You will find her story just as interesting on Wednesday and Friday.

Stolen Revolver Reveals Thief

(By International News Service)

SANTA ROSA, Cal., June 20.—A revolver stolen from Frank Johnson on the Kunda tract proved the means of tracing the theft. John Parthanow last night accidentally shot himself in the shoulder and when an officer was called he found Johnson's revolver. A wallet had also been stolen with a sum of money.

ZOELLNER QUARTET IS ATTRACTION FOR FRIDAY EVENING

Glendale residents will have an opportunity of hearing on Friday evening of this week, the great Zoellner Quartet, and the public of Glendale owes this treat to the enterprise of the committee in charge of arrangements for the great Christian Endeavor convention, which opens in this city on the following day.

The Zoellner Quartet has carried throughout the United States the message of beauty that lies in string quartet music. So well-known are they in this country as well as in Europe that further comment seems superflous. The great success of the Zoellners is due to the fact that they are a most remarkable combination of talent, and they now stand among the recognized quartets of the world.

The cardinal virtue of quartet playing lies in the ensemble, and this the Zoellners have in the highest degree; they present a unity of artistic purpose seldom found.

While America claims the Zoellners by reason of birth and citizenship, the musical world of the two hemispheres is proud of their achievements.

BEAUTIFUL SACRED CONCERT GIVEN BY CHURCH CHOIR

Careful preparation, true musical feeling and good voices combined to make the musicale given by the choir of the Central Christian church last evening, one of the musical treats of the season.

Well balanced parts, good attack, and beauty of shading marked the ensemble singing, and demonstrated once more the marked ability of the choir director, Mrs. Calvin Whitmg.

The anthems, "Savior Again to Thy Dear Name" (Llewellyn), Shelley's "Hark, Hark, My Soul" and Barnby's "King All Glorious", were sung with a finish of detail and a reverence for their sacred import that proves this choir, though not the largest, one of the best in Glendale.

Kussner's "The Evening Hour" was the opening number, played most charmingly by Mrs. M. G. Musser, who proved herself in her accompaniments for the singers to be as gifted an accompanist as she is a solo player. Her offertory, "Moon Moths," also a Kussner composition, was likewise very beautiful.

Mrs. Dorothy Armstrong Welcome of Los Angeles, well known to Glendale music lovers as a violinist of unusual talent, contributed two beautiful and appropriate violin numbers to the program: Shubert's "Ave Maria" and "Prayer," from the opera Rienzi. Her fine interpretation of these musical classics was much enhanced by the sympathetic piano accompaniments played by her sister, Mrs. Charles Lee Marlenee.

Miss Margaret Dick's remarkable contralto was heard to advantage in "O Rest in the Lord" (Mendelssohn) and Stenson's setting of Whitcomb Riley's poem, "The Perfect Prayer." Her enunciation is clear and her voice is of unusual and beautiful timbre.

Dr. C. A. Cole, pastor of the church, gave a short address on music. Stressing its importance in the home, in the church and in the spiritual life generally, he quoted the words of a great churchman, "Let me write the songs of a nation and I care not who writes its laws."

According to the reports of missionaries, said the speaker, the heathen nations may be said to have no songs; or if they have, they are weird chants of fear and dread, of hope unrealized, of joy unattained; they have no songs of joy. When converted, however, when they have received Christ, they break forth into songs of joy.

Music is associated with our redemption. The first song of the Bible is a song of redemption. The prisoners of Babylon hung their harps on the willow trees and refused to sing, away from their home, their beautiful city. The 23rd Psalm, the speaker said, is a beautiful song, a song in the night of trouble and distress.

"Nearer, My God, to Thee," "Just As I Am," and "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," are songs that have touched the hearts of men and will continue to move men till time shall be no more; they are the songs of Jesus; God is the author of harmony, the author of music.

Several hymns were sung by the congregation and the concert closed with the benediction and responses by the choir.

The offering of the evening will be contributed by the choir to a fund for a new organ, to be placed in the proposed new church.

Gobs of Affection

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO, June 20.—William Randolph Brookman, former bluejacket editor of the Great Lakes Bulletin, the daily paper of the naval training station appears to have left something behind him or his successor is not a good proof reader. He left the editorial sanctum for Hampton Roads recently.

Says the current issue of the Bulletin:

"We have been pleased to note that William Randolph Brookman, former editor-in-chief of the Bulletin, has been appointed to a similar position at his new billet at Hampton Roads.

"With the exception of one or two, the entire staff regretted Brookman's departure from Great Lakes and trust he will not return shortly."

LARGE NUMBER OF QUARTERS NEEDED FOR EXPECTED DELEGATES

Saturday's Canvass Resulted in Accommodations for Over a Thousand

DEMAND MUST BE MET

Bed and Breakfast Is All That Will Be Required by Visiting Delegates

All day Saturday young people representing the entertainment committee of the Christian Endeavor convention were busy visiting the homes of Glendale. Everywhere they were well received and were able, at the close of the day, to report accommodations found for about one thousand delegates. This was very good, considering that many were out of town and others called upon wanted to think it over before deciding. Others agreed to take more than originally planned to do.

Committee members say the visiting delegates will not be particular. All they will want is a bad, and a breakfast, if possible. Some will be given beds in tents.

Fifteen hundred more lodging places are needed. Glendale should feel pride enough to take care of these delegates and not compel them to go to Pasadena, Hollywood or Los Angeles for shelter. This convention is one of the biggest advertising chances Glendale has ever had and one of the biggest opportunities to show the hospitable, whole-hearted public spirit of the town.

Miss Ethel Preston was captain of the canvassers who worked Saturday, her committee including Mmes. A. L. Hewitt, J. B. King, J. A. Newton, W. W. West, Misses Evangeline Quackenbush, Neva Dana, Bessie Ross, Sarah McNary, Mmes. Edwin Murphy, Frazee and Glen Porter.

Persons willing to help in meeting this emergency and to open their homes to delegates for the few days the convention will be in session, are requested to phone Christian Endeavor headquarters, Glendale 1967.

Y. L. I. PARTY AND DANCE SATURDAY

Mrs. C. E. Norton, Mrs. W. W. Ramsey, Mrs. M. J. Brennan, Mrs. Keleher, Mrs. Rapp, Mrs. Frank Salmacia, and many other ladies from Glendale attended the card party and dance given by the Y. L. I. at the Ambassador Saturday, which is expected to net the organization between $500 and $1000.

Injured in Auto Collision

SANTA ROSA, Cal., June 20.—Mrs. E. Abramson sustained severe injuries, including concussion of the brain, in an automobile collision here late last night.

GLENDALE IS STILL IN THE LIMELIGHT WITH NEW SCHEME

Glendale has again had occasion to "tell the world."

A Glendale man is the originator of the first "double drive-in" fruit stand. It is located at 710 South San Fernando road, and is known as "Newby's Corner."

A description of this new idea in boulevard fruit stands appears in the July issue of Popular Mechanics. The article is illustrated with a picture and a "close-up" of the folding doors that close the stand at night, and it describes in detail the building and the driveway, which allows autoists to stop and do their marketing without impeding the traffic and endangering lives. Prices and methods of construction are also given.

The article is good publicity for Glendale, for a footnote states that the address of the builder will be given by the magazine on application. The advantages of the plan are so manifest that R. E. Newby, the owner, will no doubt receive inquiries concerning it, which, he says, will give him a chance to tell 'em about Glendale.

HIGH SCHOOL BOY IS MAKING GOOD

Floyd (Lefty) Herman, who made such a big name in athletics while attending the local high school and is now playing professional baseball at Edmonton, Canada, has been picked as a star already and big things are expected of him in the future.

Lefty was a member of this year's graduating class, but left last April to play baseball. He has not only made a record in baseball, but was equally as well in football and basketball and took a big part in track. He was also a member of "Glendale's Own" company of the National Guard.

The following write up is taken from the Sporting News, a national sport paper published in St. Louis, about the Edmonton Baseball club.

Herman the Outstanding Star

But with all this array of beauties that Gleichman dug up around Los Angeles, there is yet a youthful prodigy who tops the others as a prospect for future greatness. This is the 18-year-old high school giant, Herman, a left-handed colossus who towers into the sky some six feet three and a half inches. Gus picked him for an outfielder, but was forced to play him at first base on account of his own injuries. The kid simply ate it up at first, is shifting feet with the best of them, and when it come to hitting, has broken all records for long hits on these grounds. In the opening game here he whaled one over the right field fence on a line 350 feet from the home plate. He hits a ball through the infield harder than Jack Fournier, who once played in this league, and he is fast on his feet.

J. M. FIFE GOES EAST TO OLD HOME

J. M. Fife of 517 North Jackson street is leaving this morning for his old home at Houston, Pa., about 20 miles south of Pittsburg. It is a pleasure trip, pure and simple, to visit his mother and relatives he has not seen for three years, and to renew acquaintance with the host of his friends there around the old Fife homestead which has been in the family since 1767, when two brothers came over from Scotland and took up 1000 acres of government land, of which 100 acres are still in the family and have been handed down from generation to generation as the Fife homestead, a precious heirloom. It is now leased to a stranger for the first time but the Fifes have no idea of parting with it.

Mr. Fife does not expect to return before the first of August.

TRAFFIC HELD UP THIS MORNING

A break in the trolley wire on Brand this morning at 7:30, held up traffic for several minutes. Repair men soon had the wire spliced so that the car service could be resumed, but there was an interval in which they had to coast past the break.

Dr. Riley Lectures

Glendale, June 19, 1921.

Editor Daily Press: Dr. Frank L. Riley of Hollywood, lecturer at Krotona Institute of Theosophy, delivered his announced lecture at Masonic Temple, Glendale, Sunday, on the subject: "Was Jesus a Metaphysician?"

The doctor asserted that Phineas Quimby founded the philosophy of metaphysics in 1866; that there are two distinct departures of metaphysics, the book or dryphase and the practical, which makes for the evolution of mankind.

It was a remarkable coincidence that immediately upon the "passing" of Phineas Quimby, that the first edition of "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mrs. Baker Eddy," containing in essence the ideas of Mr. Quimby, came out. Mrs. Eddy in the earlier editions gave Mr. Quimby credit for much that she incorporated in her work, but it has been eliminated in the later editions and the earlier editions are eagerly sought for by the leaders of the philosophy.

A perfect understanding of the truth and the observance of the same will not alone cure disease, eliminate accidents, but will prevent all sickness and disease. Unfortunately, as "ye are none perfect, no not one," it is our privilege as well as our duty to strive for perfection.

Many Biblical quotations were given demonstrating the metaphysical powers of Jesus.

The only incident in the life of the Master used as an argument by materialists is that of the case of the blind man upon whom Jesus used clay moistened with his spittle, but students of the usages, customs and sayings of the period of Jesus, rather than "parrots" of the Bible, conclusively demonstrate that the Jewish practice of spitting upon an object was indicative of their contempt, Jesus washes off the clay and spittle with the "water of life," a purely symbolic interpretation of a metaphysical healing.

Christians practiced the art of healing as late as 350 A. D., when during a reign of social functioning the spiritual gave way to frivolous pleasures and the art of healing was for a long period eliminated.

Tolstoi made the mistake of asserting that women are inferior to men, and used as an illustration, that woman never founded a religion. As a matter of fact it was a woman that founded spiritualism, christian science and theosophy, during which period metaphysical healing has been growing in favor by leaps and bounds.

While 99 cases out of 100 can be cured metaphysically it is rank fanaticism bordering on religious mania to refuse material means in extreme emergencies.

The doctor dwelt at some length showing the physiological connection and detrimental effect of fear upon physical and mental development, emphasizing that fear is the most deadly sin of all sins.

No Maid on Honeymoon

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO, June 18.— Miss Lolita Armour, to be married today, will not take any maid along on her honeymoon.

"No, not a single one," laughed Mrs. J. Ogden Armour when an enthusiastic reporter, anxious for the last detail, asked how many maids her daughter would take along.

"She did not ask for one of the maids to help her pack," Mrs. Armour volunteered. I'm quite sure that with her handsome husband to help her she'll manage beautifully without a maid on her honeymoon.

Faris F. Murdy Goes to Coming Fistic Battle

sonal friend of Dempsey, through whom he has obtained ring-side seats for the boys. They are also to be the guests of Dempsey at his camp two days before the fight and Faris hopes to have the honor of a few minutes' sparring with the great American champion. Two days they will spend at the Pennsylvania hotel in New York before the fight and five days there after the fight, and will have stop-over privileges in Washington on their way home.

While it is avy propaganda to keep the Pacific fleet in the public eye and to keep the jackies interested to work for the honor of the ship in the hope that they too may be chosen to represent her on a great occasion, the two boys are deeply appreciative of the chance that has come to them to represent the Mississippi and the fleet and are determined to do it worthily. Meanwhile, the boys they leave behind will anxiously await their return to hear from their own lips the details of the great encounter. They will get back to the coast about July 15.

Their leave taking at the ship on the 26th will be a big event in fleet circles and probably every man will be on deck to speed them with good wishes. Camera men for the Pathe News will probably be there and it will be played up for all the publicity the Mississippi can get. The excitement has infected the landsmen and a tailor has asked the privilege of making uniforms for Murdy and Harrison without charge, another merchant has outfitted them with travelling bags, and before the 26th arrives they may have more gifts than they can carry across the continent.

Faris Murdy, who is the son of Mrs. Paul Jones, is a big-bodied, big-hearted, husky sailor lad whose motto is Excelsior and whose religion is to make others happy and to lead a clean life in the best sense of the term. In his little letter of acknowledgment to the crew, published in The Mississippi Bulletin, otherwise "the sea's greatest newspaper," he said:

My Dear Shipmates:

You are all wonderful! Honest, this is one time you've got me "snowed under;" I gasp for words to express my appreciation—"There ain't none!" Love is about the nearest, and it sounds too mushy, but I'll just have to say "Lord Love You" and I am a close second, but not just because you chose Bandy and me to represent you, but for that "Ole Missy Spirit," with "21 knots and no smoke," and the heart for putting things over big, which was put into this contest.

Really, I only wish that Miss Liberty, all alone out there in the greater New York Harbor, had the "Ole Missys's" starboard anchor in her port hand and I could hear the O. D. yell: "Dempsey-Carpentier liberty party fall in! Count off!—and that the count would run 1400 strong, including the O. D.

Battleship Division Eight has just been augmented by the arrival Friday af the Tennessee from New York, the latest of the distinctive U. S. Clipper bow dreadnaughts and is the first oil-burning battleship to have two stacks. All the torpedo destroyers and all the ships of the division—the Mississippi, New Mexico and Idaho, steamed out to meet her. The division now goes north to Santa Barbara on the 22d, there it divides, the New Mexico and Tennessee going to Monterey, the Idaho and Mississippi to Santa Cruz. June 30 the Idaho will leave Santa Cruz for Seattle, which it is expected to make by July 3. The New Mexico, Tennessee and Mississippi will leave July 1 for San Francisco, and the Texas, which will start with them the 22d and go on to San Francisco will leave that port in time to reach Tacoma July 2.

PRESIDENT HARDING IS BASEBALL FAN

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 20. — President Harding is a dyed-in-the-wool baseball fan.

"Eddie" Collins, Ray Schalk and "Kid" Gleason, mighty White Sox trio, are of one opinion. They think the President is a "regular guy."

The trio, with "Doc" White, former White Sox star, paid a social call on the President while the Sox were playing at the Senators' lot.

"You're a better ball player than I am," Harding told Schalk.

To Eddie Collins the President said: "Well, well. You're a much younger looking man than I thought."

And of course Eddie blushed.

The President grabbed Gleason by the shoulders and shook him like a college mate.

"Hello, Gleason, I know you," he said. "There's one thing about you I've always liked. Remember last season when your pitchers were going bad and you got out and pitched yourself? Well, I wish you all the success in the world this season."

"What is your name?" a Kentuckian asked a small negro boy.

"Well, boss," answered the chap, "everywhere Ah goes dey gibs me a new name, but mah maiden name was Mose."

THE SOFT LUSTRE OF REFINEMENT

A most fascinating subject is the equipment of the modern home. There is really nothing more important than that the light shall be properly distributed with just the proper glow—but never a glare! At the Jewel Electric Co. of 200 East Broadway you will find so many good styles of electric lighting fixtures that you will have no difficulty in selecting just the suitable and serviceable fixture for every room in the house. They are thoroughly qualified to give you the very best of ideas and install either direct or indirect lighting systems in their correct places. You will find in their Fixture Department many really beautiful Wall Brackets, Reading Lamps, Chandeliers and Candelabras for every room in the house, in just the attractive designs to harmonize with the furnishings of the living room, or library, dining-room or bedroom as well as the best of suggestions for the bathroom and kitchen, where a strong light is necessary at all times. One dream of a light is made up with a border of rose and the most charming little figures in a delightful pattern for an attractive dining-room.

The STAFF OF LIFE

Right here in Glendale at the Fancy Bakery, located at 142 North Brand boulevard, one may buy one hundred per cent pure Whole Wheat Bread made of the finest whole wheat that can be purchased. Weight for weight bread is regarded as the most nutritious of our ordinary food. The whole wheat is preferable to the white bread because it is richer in proteid and mineral matter and so makes a better balanced diet. Bread yields to the blood a large proportion of carbohydrates but almost no fat. Therefore the important part of every meal is bread and whole wheat bread made from a sweet well raised dough and baked under the cleanest and most sanitary conditions such as you will find at the Fancy Bakery has a richer, better flavor and is noticeably better bread. There is much to be said about a bakery such as the Fancy Bakery and you will find a visit to their modern shop at 142 North Brand boulevard well worth your while, for there you will find wholesome and delicious bread and pastry of all kinds.

YE SIGN OF HOSPITALITY

A Winsome Little Tea Set fairly beckoned me in as I was passing the Firbeck Art Studios at 215 South Brand boulevard. Inside I found that the Furbeck Studios are selling finer hand-painted china at less prices than in the shops of larger cities. They are well known for their two and three fires china which you know will neither chip nor wear off, but retains its original lustre indefinitely. Just drop in and look them over they're such delightful gifts for the bride and you will also find other art novelties suitable for gifts.

Bread when well made and well baked, should possess a thin, flinty crust and have a sweet nutty flavor.

There is nothing that detracts from a woman's appearance as much as a run down heel. Rubber heels and soles are much easier to walk upon, give excellent service and are always good-looking.

Weight is a very important consideration when selecting and electric fan for home use. Be sure that it is light enough to be carried about from room to room with little effort.

ORIGINAL AND CLEVER DESIGNS

Expert Handiwork of delicate beauty is strongly in demand. When the Brooks' Shoppe of 123 North Brand boulevard fashions you a fetching collar and cuff set of sheerest organdie, you are sure of a clever design as well as an original model. Mrs. Brooks' hemstitching quickly transforms the plainest of dresses into a pert and billowy sunshine frock of summer witchery.

KIDDIES TOGS

At Zite-Leen's, 140 North Brand boulevard are to be found boys' washable suits in all varieties of colors and sizes! Take the little son to Zite Leen's where they will extend him the courtesy of allowing him to try the suit on—which makes buying so much more covenient. Besides, you'll find Zite-Leen's prices very much less than in the city.

FOR THE SOLE OF TROUBLE

One does not often find a repair shop like the Eureka Shoe Shop of 210 East Broadway. And it is particularly difficult to find a shoemaker who is qualified to properly sole a shoe that will retain its original good lines and withstand reasonable wear. Mr. O'Neill, of the Eureka Shoe Shop thoroughly understands his business and believes in giving "value received."

A LITTLE WAVING IS A WONDROUS THING

Glancing despairingly in your mirror at those straight hairs that cimply won't "stay put," hasn't it seemed rather unfair that some women might have curly hair unaffected by wind and weather—even water? But now—"brighter days have come!" Yes, Walcott's Beauty Shoppe of 135 South Brand boulevard have a new 1921 Nestle Permanent Wave Machine and an experienced operator! This means that naturally curly hair is now within the reach of every woman! Expensive? Not a bit.—Why Walcott's Beauty Shoppe are offering a special—eighteen curls for only fifteen dollars!

ORANGE DROP CAKES

3 lbs. shortening, 1 cup sugar, two-thirds cup milk, 1 egg, 2 cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, one-eighth teaspoon salt, grated rind and juice of one orange.

Cream shortening and sugar together, add milk slowly. Then well beaten egg. Sift flour, baking powder and salt, and add to mixture. Beat well, add orange juice and grated orange rind. Grease tins well and drop a spoonful of the mixture, being careful to leave enough space so that they will not run together. Bake in a hot oven 15 to 20 minutes. Cover with the following orange icing:

1½ cups confectioner's sugar, 2 tablespoons boiling water, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, grated rind of one orange.

THE MAN WHO KNOWS!

Mr. H. Sheehy of the Glendale Plumbing Company, 134 South Orange street believes that a man can never learn too much about his business. The more he knows about it, the better is his judgment and the better he can serve the public. Mr. Sheehy has studied conditions in various places including Mexico, Alaska, Canada, Washington, Oregon and California and it is significant that he has chosen to establish his home in Glendale. Glendale s justly proud of its new Research Hospital which is the most modern from point of sanitation in the United States. The complete arrangement of its up-to-the minute sanitary appliances were designed and installed under the direction of Mr. Sheehy of the Glendale Plumbing Company. When you want to know the newest and best way of installing heating and plumbing it is the man of ideas and judgment who has the ability to help you solve that branch of your building problems. He knows all about proper equipment for new installations, he never goes bargain hunting when buying materials. When Mr. Sheehy is your plumbing contractor, quality and efficiency is the keynote of his work.

A theater ticket not made of paper but of a stony substance that has stood the test of two thousand years had been presented to President Harding by Dr. John Constas, assistant surgeon at Georgetown university hospital. Dr. Constas stated that the theater ticket was probably used during the earliest period of Grecian drama. It bears on the side the engraved head of a Gorgon and on the reverse the head of a fox. It is believed to be of Athenian origin.

WHATEVER YOU HAVE IN YOUR ROOMS, THINK FIRST OF YOUR WALLS FOR THEY ARE THAT WHICH MAKE YOUR HOUSE—HOME!

An entire change of ownership is the first thing that one notices upon entering the Glendale Paint and Paper Company, of 119 South Brand boulevard. Glendale is indeed fortunate in having acquired another progressive citizen and merchant in Mr. Wm. Hunter, the new owner of the Glendale Paint and Paper Co. Mr. Hunter is a man whose business success has been built on the substantial foundation of good retail methods, the ability to grasp opportunities, the rare genius for making friends, and the dependability of his service in dealing with the public as well as cooperating with his fellow merchants. The Glendale Paint and Paper Company, under their new ownership are featuring high class wall-papers in the latest and most up-to-date designs and patterns that are adaptable to any purpose. There are paperrs whose vigorous color treatment affords a decoration of unusual merit; there are shadow effects of softest tints and in fact suggestioins for color schemes for any room. Mr. Hunter has also secured a full line of Pratt and Lambert Vitralite Enamel and the famous "61" Floor Varnish.

LOCAL OUTINGS FOR C. E. DIVERSIONS

Banquets, Picnics, Ball Games and Bonfires to Feature Recreation Program

The entertainment program of the great Christian Endeavor convention is to include a number of banquets. The first of these will be the Alumni banquet Monday afternoon, June 27, at the First Methodist church in this city.

Tuesday at 12:30, the O. O. C. Circle is booked for a luncheon at the Congregational church.

Wednesday at 7 a. m., Life Recruits will have a chance to enjoy a breakfast at the Congregational church.

On Wednesday at 12:45 there will be a Junior luncheon at the Congregational church.

At 4:30 p. m. on Wednesday a missionary luncheon will be served at the Glendale Presbyterian church.

Tickets for all these affairs will be sold at the registration bureau.

When asked concerning other entertainments, J. Rhea Baker stated that the Intermediates will be taken Monday at 11:30 to Verdugo Park for a picnic and the Juniors at 3:30 the same afternoon, a box luncheon supper to be served at 5:30. It is expected that about 1500 will be there and that they will be conveyed by special Glendale-Montrose cars and by automobiles.

On the same afternoon (Monday), the Alumni will go to the ball grounds of the high school, where a game will be played by teams representing the north and south.

During the week, two evening bonfires will take place on the high school bleachers following the meeting in the tabernacle.

Glendale Theatre

Today for the last time Mark Twain's inimitable satire, "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," will be shown at the Glendale theater.

It is an elaborate production of great merit and those who saw it yesterday give it high praise.

The latest Pathe News, Topics of the Day are other features, and for full measures there is added a Harold Lloyd comedy, "From Hand to Mouth," making this a comedy bill unsurpassed.

Daily Press Classified Ads have great selling power. Try them out and be convinced.

Shop in Airplane

(By International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—The day of aerial limousines is no longer a thing of the future. It is a reality.

"Home, James." That is what Mrs. W. A. Keddie, owner of a string of valuable ranches told her aerial chauffeur the other day when she suddenly decided to return to Reno, Nev.

Mrs. Keddie, who has long been an enthusiast of aviation and travels almost entirely by airplane, called her pilot by telephone and said: "Let's leave at 2 o'clock." W. W. Williams is Mrs. Keddie's pilot.

Mrs. Keddie, who acts as manager for her several ranches and calls Fallon, Nev., her home, purchased the machine some time ago to be used in travelling between her ranches. She found it so successful that when she deemed it necessary to remain in San Francisco on business she telegraphed for the plane that she might finish her affairs here and still return to Reno in time to meet business appointments there.

At each of the ranches she has installed a landing field and a system of lighting has also been established in the event of night flying. However, Mrs. Keddie has done little night flying. Mrs. Keddie said she expected to take a vacation this summer—an aerial one—in which she expects to visit New York and other eastern cities.

CONDOLENCE SENT BY PRESIDENT TO WIDOW

WASHINGTON, June 20.—President Harding today sent the following message of condolence to Mrs. William B. Mason, widow of Congressman Mason of Illinois, who died here yesterday.

"My dear Mrs. Mason: I learned last evening with very great sorrow of the death of Mr. Mason. The news was a shock to both Mrs. Harding and me and we very genuinely share the sorrow which has come to you. It had been my very good fortune to know him for many years and I held him to be not only a highly patriotic citizen and an able public man, but a most lovable friend and associate.

"Very truly yours,
"WARREN G. HARDING."

The quotation "Three things a man is most likely to be cheated in—a horse, a wig and a wife," is from Poor Richard's Almanac.

SHORT STORIES

Chris and John had been away from home against their mother's commands and she was waiting for them with a switch. "Chris, vare have you been?" "Mit John." "John, vare you been?" "Mit Chris." "Vare you both been?" "Togedder."

She had been visiting on a farm for a week and was letting the world know it. Her companion, also, apparently had seldom been off the brick streets. "And how is the corn this year?" the companion asked. "Doing just fine," was the reply, "but the alpaca needs irritating, Mr. Brown said."

A certain lawyer was asked by an acquaintance how it was that lawyers contrived to remain on such friendly terms with each other, although they were famed for their cutting remarks. The lawyer looked at him with a twinkle in his eye, and remarked: "Yes, but they're like scissors; they only cut what comes between."

Bliggins for some years had gone the pace that kills, only it didn't kill him, but merely reformed him. Then he joined the church and rose so high in its councils that he was sent to one of the big cities as delegate to a convention. "How was it?" asked a friend when he returned. "The convention? Oh, all right," answered Bliggins. "But that town! Some town! If I'd only been a delegate to something there before I got converted!"

Rose, the garrulous domestic, can give you facts of history—international, dramatic, scandalous—right off the bat without a moment's hesitation. "How do you manage to remember all these things, Rose?" inquired her employer other day. Then Rose came back with the infallible rule for memory training, "I tell ye, ma'am," says she. "All me life never a lie I've told. And when ye don't have to be taxin' yer memory to be rememberin' what ye told this one or that one, or how ye explained this or that, ye don't overwork it and it lasts ye, good as new, forever."

—Little Tommie, a precocious six-year-old, had been disappointed in love. He had a date to play with little Mary Ann in her house across the way. When he got there he found she had forgotten all about him and was sliding down hill on his rival's new sled Tommie returned home, disgusted with all girls in general and one in particular. He didn't cry nor did he contemplate suicide. Instead he went straight to his mamma and with childish naivete said: "Mamma d'you know what I'd do if I was Adam? I'd go right up to heaven and I'd say, "Please, Mr. God, if it's just the same to you I'd like to have my rib back."

"Charity begins at home," said Dr. Wilbur P. Crafts of the International reform bureau of Washington, "but no truth is so disregarded as this one. Two beggar women met on the street the other day. 'Fine coat you've got there. Where did you land it?' said the first one. 'Old Mrs. Gobsa Golde gave it to me,' said the second beggar woman. 'Is that so? I've begged at Mrs. Gobsa Golde's a hundred times, and she never gave me a cent. How did you work her?' "Well, you see,' said the first beggar woman, stroking her new coat complacently, 'I didn't tell her I was begging for myself. I pretended I was begging for the heathen.'"

They were big game hunters and they were trotting out their usual stock of "reminiscences." When each had told his best lie the only member of the party who had never been to Africa was asked to tell a story. "Well I'm afraid I've nothing very exciting to tell you," he piped in a small, still voice. "I once had a small affair with a lion escaped from a menagerie. He bounded on me as he got clear of his inclosure—and, well, of course, I wasn't armed." "What on earth did you do?" chorused the others. "Well," retorted the little man, "I just seized his lower jaw with my right hand and his upper jaw with my left and held his mouth open till he starved."

The late E. C. Benedict, the noted financier and yachtsman, said one day at Indian Harbor: "I am such a bad after-dinner speaker that often in the middle of a speech I think dismally of Judge Lyons of Tombstone. Judge Lyons arose one evening to make a campaign speech in the presence of a large audience. He spoke so badly that his audience melted away by degrees. At the end of an hour one old miner was left. The old miner yawned and reached down for his hat at last, but he was horrified to see Judge Lyons draw a six-shooter from his hip pocket and lay it on the desk before him. The old miner sat up. He fingered his hat nervously. At length he interrupted Judge Lyons' torrid flood of oratory and said: 'Be ye g'wine to shoot ef I go?' 'Suck, friend is my intention,' said Judge Lyons grimly. 'I am bound to finish my oration, even if I have to shoot to keep an audience.' The old miner heaved a deep sigh. Then he rose and started for the door, at the same time saying over his shoulder: 'Wall, shoot if yer a mind ter, I'd as lief be shot as talked ter death.'"

Jerry Smith, who used to be connected with the house of representatives until the people first began talking republican again a few years back, tells this story about his brother: "My brother," he said, "went down south not long ago and arranged to stop at a hotel in a small town for three days. He fixed it up with the waiter who served him the first meal to serve him all three days. He was much surprised the next day when his waiter stood over at one side of the dining-room and a new boy appeared to take his order. He called the boy he had made his first arrangement with over and asked him about the switch. 'I thought you were going to wait on me for three days,' said my brother. 'That's all right, boss,' said the boy. 'I was. But I done shot you against two-bits an' I lost.'"

Allen J. Krebs, a native Mississippian, who now lives in Atlanta, has a story he likes to tell about an old negro friend who came to him one day when he lived in Mississippi and asked for a loan that would enable him to go into business. "Ah been workin' for somebody else all mah life," he said, "an Oh wants to go out an' be mah own boss des once." "Well, Uncle Billy," replied Mr. Krebs, "I think that is a laudable ambition, and I am going to help you. I am glad to see you darkies doing something for yourselves. What are you thinking of doing?" "Well, sur," said the old man, brightening considerably, "Ah fin's Ah kin buy wood cross de ribber at a dollar er cord. All Ah has to do is to lighter it across and sell it right here in dis here town." As wood was selling for $50 a cord in Natchez, Mr. Kreb thought favorably of the venture and let Uncle Billy have $300 to start the business. A month later Mr. Krebs went down to the river front and there was Uncle Billy just arriving with a lot of splendid looking wood: "How are you getting along, Uncle Billy?" asked Mr. Krebs. "Des fine, des fine, cap'n," he replied. "What are you getting for wood like that now?" "Ah gits a dollar er cord," answered the old man. "Why you idiot," said Mr. Krebs, "don't you know you can't pay a dollar a cord for wood, bring it across the river and sell it at a profit for a dollar a cord?" "Lawd, Cap'n Krebs," responded Uncle Billy, engaging in one of those bewitching smiles that characterize the race, "Ah ain't lookin' for no profit. Ah'm des lookin' fur business."

LIFE IN NORTH IS SAFER THAN CITIES

SEATTLE, June 20.—Life in lAaska is as safe as a federal reserve bank compared to the hazardous crossing of streets in Seattle, according to the belief of Andrew M. Taylor, who came "outside" for the first time this spring since 1898.

"Talk about facing perils in the north! Why, I'd rather drive a log team across a glacier at 60 below than take chances of crossing Third avenue at Union street" he said. "And the noise! You folks seem to think you've got to be hardy to live up north. But I'd give anything I've got to be out of here, where a person can hear himself talk."

Taylor came out to meet John B. Burnham of New York, president of the American Game Protective association, whom he will guide on a hunting and scientific expedition in Siberia. The party will go to Nome, then cross the Bering sea. They will return to Siberia the same way and take the last boat down to Seattle about October 1.

Burnham is in quest of a number of varieties of Siberian sheep not to be found on this continent, and plans to bring back specimens of these animals.

HORSESHOE GAME SPECTATOR INJURED

While standing behind the pitcher's bench on the local horse shoe grounds last Thursday, George Walton, a resident of Glendale, was struck by a wild shoe thrown by Mr. Putnam of West Elk street.

Mr. Walton suffered the loss of a tooth and was severely cut on the lips. His injuries are painful but not serious, and he considers himself lucky that he was not hit in the eye.

While the pitcher's box is no good place for spectators, visitors on the benches provided for them are in no danger.

Included among the problems of this period of readjustment is that of making a fixed income support a higher-priced automobile.

"How long should spaghetti be cooked?" asks a correspondent in a home journal. About 28 inches, we think, is the right length.

Optimist—"Cheer up, old man, things aren't as bad as they seem."
Pessimist—"No, but they seem so."

HONOR THE FLAG

The Glendale Daily Press struck a responsive chord in its offer of a beautiful bunting flag with each yearly subscription paid in advance. All we could procure at that time were speedily taken and many applied for the flags after the supply had been exhausted. To satisfy these demands we have ordered a new supply, and these will be given on the same terms as were the first. The Daily Press is not doing this as a money-making proposition, for the flags are quite costly and the paper is worth every cent asked for it, but we desire to do our bit toward stimulating patriotism and reverence for the flag. We hope to eventually see "Old Glory" displayed in every Glendale home, and we want to do our part toward bringing this about.

Fill out the coupon below and bring it or mail it to the office, accompanied with $5 for a year's advance subscription, and a flag will be laid away for you. If in arrears, pay to date and a year in advance to get the flag.

THE NATIONALIZATION OF CHILDREN

The nationalization of the children of Russia by the soviet government carries with it something more than a sympathetic appeal to the people of the United States. It is a grim warning to American parents who are witnessing in this country an ever-increasing demand for state laws, bureaus and boards affecting and supervising all children.

Here is the soviet idea of nationalization of children, taken from the official Russian magazine of the commissariat of education:

"We have to create out of the young generation a generation of communists. We must make real, good communists of the children, for they, like wax, are easily molded. We must remove the children from the pernicious influence of the family. We must register the children or, let us speak plainly, nationalize them. Thus they will from the very start remain under the beneficial influence of communist kindergartens and schools. Here they will absorb the alphabet of communism. Here they will grow up to be real communists. To compel the mother to surrender her child to us, to the soviet state, that is the practical task before us."

That was the theory which led to the establishment of soviet institutions for children. How the theory worked out in practice may be concluded from the following excerpt of a report of the soviet inspection of one of the nurseries in Petrograd:

"The children, left to their own devices, under the supervision of inexperienced and rough-spoken nurses, with filthy clothing, pale from lack of sufficient nourishment, made a painful impression. The place itself, unventilated and poorly heated, fostered all manner of diseases and contributed to the exceedingly high rate of mortality among the children. In the course of three months the child population of that institution renewed itself to an extent of 90 per cent. In other words, nearly all of them were sent to the hospital, or, having failed even to reach the hospital, they perished while still at the nursery."

Thus do we see the theory of nationalization of children in actual practice. The state or government assumes full responsibility for the child. The mother is separated from her offspring, all parental love, affection and instruction is forbidden. Motherhood is placed upon an animal basis and the child is taken by the state as a soulless automaton to be carved into a communistic citizen. The state becomes the parent.

After all, this is but the logical conclusion of many attempts made in the United States to shift the duties of the parent to the state. The recent Nebraska legislature was asked to enact numerous laws which in effect would have taken from the parent those inherent rights and duties of the father and mother and invested such rights and duties in boards and bureaus.

Tragic and heart-rending as this spectacle in Russia may be, it will at least be of some service if it will act as a warning to Americans who are time and again threatened with laws that invade the home and take from the parents those duties which must be performed by them. It is well to remember that the ultimate end of such legislation is the nationalization of the child

A social reformer says it is hard to understand the plural wife. It is also hard to understand the singular wife.

There were fewer divorces in the old days when marriages were arranged by Cupid instead of cupidity.

The radical doesn't believe in capital punishment, but he is strong on the punishment of capital.

The taxi driver pockets his fee and, patting the hood of his tin lizzie, says, "The wages of tin."

GRAVE AND GAY

A leopard once met a lion down by a water hole in the jungle and said:

"Why do you go about the jungle roaring the way you do?"

The lion said: "I believe in advertising. If it had not been for my advertising I would never have been made king of beasts. It pays to advertise, and I never fail to grasp an opportunity to do it."

It so happened that rabbit, who was crouching down in some weeds, heard this conversation and appreciated the logic of the thing.

Next day, as he was nibbling at a big tree, he filled his lungs, threw back his head and let out what was supposed to be a roar; it resulted in a high-pitched squeak. A fox happened to be on the other side of the tree, and hearing the squeak went around to investigate. Of course he ate the rabbit.

Now, the moral of this parable is, it is folly to advertise—if you don't have the goods.

A teacher in a slum school was calling over the names of his scholars in order to ascertain which of them were likely to leave shortly. "Please sir," said one urchin, "I think I shall leave soon." "Why Tommy?" asked the teacher. "Well, sir," he said, "I think we're going to leave our house, 'cause mother's burnt the coalhouse door an' sold the cupboard door, an' father's a-choppin' down the stairs this mornin'. We allus leave after we've burnt the stairs."

We'd Call Him Going Some.

Some men do,
And some men don't—
Say, "I can't!"
When they mean "I won't!"
Another chap says:
"Well, maybe I can!"
Now, which would you say
Is the coming man?

Not In Need Of Money.

Pretty good evidence of prosperity in America is the fact that a vast number of holders of temporary liberty bonds have not taken the trouble to exchange them for the ones carrying the long-term coupons, though interest cannot be drawn without doing so, and that more than $83,000,000 of such interest is waiting for them in the treasury. They will lose nothing except the interest on interest, and we refuse to worry.

Vice President Coolidge was trying to explain the difference between personal rights as upheld by the constitution, and the other sort, which are not rights at all, and hit on this happy illustration: "It was a cold, rainy night and the owl car was late. All the passengers were cold, wet and impatient, except one man, comfortably located in the corner, who added to the general aggravation by loudly whistling a popular air. Finally one of the passengers could stand it no longer and so cried out: 'Will you please stop that infernal whistling.' 'This is a public vehicle,' retorted the whistler angrily. 'But that's no reason you should make it a public nuisance,' replied the other and after that there was no more whistling."

A Scotchman was relating his experience in a poker game with a Yankee. "Mon," he said, "I never saw such luck in all my life. That fellow would draw four cards and have a straight flush. It took me two hours to win six dollars from him."

WOMAN'S COZY CORNER

By JOSEPHINE FRANCE

These recipes were used in the menus published in Saturday's issue of the Press.

Almond Sponge Cake

Blanch and pound in a mortar one ounce of sweet and one ounce of bitter almonds. Pound them two at a time, adding a few drops of water or white of egg to prevent the nuts from boiling. When a smooth paste, add the yolks of five eggs alternately with one cupful of powdered sugar. Then add one cupful of flour, sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Lastly, fold in the stiffly beaten whites and bake as for angel food.

Spinach Souffle

Put two cups of cold, cooked spinach through the meat chopper twice, season it well; add one small cup of white sauce and the beaten whites of two eggs; cook it in timbale cups, in a pan of boiling water in the oven for fifteen minutes. Put a little riced egg on top of each form as you send it to the table.

New England Fried

Peel and boil six potatoes as described. When cold, peel and cut in small pieces. Melt fat enough to cover the bottom of a frying pan. When hot, put in the potatoes, cover three minutes, dust with pepper, salt and a teaspoonful of sugar, then stir so that the pieces cook evenly and become a delicate brown. Lift on to a hot dish with a skimmer so not to take up any excess fat. Serve at once.

Baked Rhubarb

Wash and soak eight prunes; when soft, remove the stones and cut in picese. Cut up two cupfuls of rhubarb without removing the peeling, add one cupful of boiling water to the rhubarb and prunes and bake in a moderate oven until nearly cooked, then add two-thirds of a cupful of sugar.

Pineapple and Celery Salad

Cut one-half cup of celery and one teaspoonful of pepper in small pieces; mix with one cup of shredded pineapple. Add one tablespoonful of nuts; mix with mayonnaise and when cold serve on lettuce hearts.

Boiled New Potatoes

Wash and pare a ring around as many new potatoes of uniform size as are needed, then let them stand in cold water. Put some water on to boil in a sauce pan. When boiling add a teaspoonful of salt and the potatoes—one or two at a time so the water does not stop boiling—put on the cover, and boil evenly for twenty minutes. Then test, and if tender drain. Then let them steam off for a few minutes. Peel, put them into a hot dish, turn over them a heaping tablespoonful of soft butter, a teaspoonful of chopped parsley, and dust with a little pepper and salt. This sounds simple, but if done any other way are apt to be soggy.

French Fried Potatoes

Peel six or eight good-sized potatoes and let them stand for two hours in cold water and draw off the starch. Cut them in French fried fashion, rinse and drain them. Have ready a deep frying pan with at least three inches of melted fat in it heated to the smoking point. Dry the potatoes, drop them in the fat two handfuls at a time and as they fry turn lightly with a skimmer. When brown lift to a colander, set over a pan at the edge of the oven, dust lightly with a little salt and let them drain while the rest cook. Serve on a hot dish.

Mexican Tomato Salad

Rub a salad bowl with clove of garlic in halves. Line the bowl with lettuce. Peel and slice four ripe tomatoes and dispose these above the lettuce. Add one chopped green pepper; a dozen olives cut in thin slices and sprinkle over tomatoes. Mix half a teaspoonful of salt with two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, then gradually beat in five tablespoonfuls of olive oil and turn over the salad.

Liver Balls

Fry the liver ten minutes in butter; press through a sieve; add one-half teaspoonful of finely chopped parsley, salt and pepper and one egg yolk. Shape in very small balls. Egg and crumb them and fry in deep fat.

Hashed Brown

Peel and dice six potatoes and put them in cold water for one hour. Heat fat enough to cover the bottom of a frying pan and slice into it half of a Spanish onion. Cover two minutes, then fry until it is melted and ready to brown. Have the potatoes drained and add them, cover for a few minutes then uncover and cook until done. Then stir thoroughly, dust with pepper and salt.

Broiled Potatoes

Potatoes in this style often are served with fish. The potatoes are boiled, then cooled, pared and sliced in thick slices lengthways. Then they are brushed over with butter and broiled in the broiler, dusted with salt and pepper and served hot.

STUDIO NEWS AND GOSSIP

FOX PRESENTS GREAT MARK TWAIN STORY

Mark Twain's masterpiece, "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," has been made into a motion picture by William Fox on a scale worthy of the subject. Known to the multitude of Mark Twain lovers as "The Yankee," this story is regarded not only as a great classic of American humor, but also as a forceful satire directed against those who sigh for the "good old times." Mark Twain set out to show that the world we live in is the best of all possible worlds, and the time we live in is the best of all possible times.

This he did by taking a typical young American, bright as a new penny, filled with smart, up-to-date ideas, and setting him down in a medieval court, where he could judge for himself whether the knights of old were more courageous than the men of today, and whether life as a whole was more comfortable then than now.

The result is an exquisite fantasy and delicious fooling, with a sharply drawn conclusion. "The Yankee" is rated high among Mark Twain's books. Certainly it is one of the funniest.

The picture was directed by Emmet J. Flynn, noted for his skill in fidelity of detail. The Yankee is played by Harry C. Myers, a well-known light comedian.

Mary Thurman, Harriet Hammond, Maude Wayne and Winifred Greenwood are members of the Paramount cast supporting Roscoe Arbuckle in his current picture, "Should a Man Marry?"

Ethel Grandin is playing the principal feminine role in the Metro production, "The Hunch." Five years ago, Miss Grandin was a popular screen star. Matrimony caused her retirement.

HARRY CAREY TAKES KINKS OUT OF TOWN

Harry Carey takes the kinks out of a crooked town and wins the girl of girls in "The Freeze Out," his latest Universal photodrama of life in the old west.

"The Freeze Out" was produced at Universal City and in the picturesque cattle country nearby, under the direction of Jack Ford. It is heralded as one of the year's most unusual pictures.

Helen Ferguson, who will be remembered as the leading woman in "The Mutiny of the Elsinore," and other successes, plays opposite the star. In adition to Miss Ferguson the cast includes, J. Farrell McDonald, the widely-known character actor, who plays a serio-comic role as the village drunkard. Joe Harris, who has been seen in many villainous roles, plays the "heavy" in this picture, while Charles Le Moyne appears as a bad man, only slightly less unscrupulous.

Jack Ford directed "The Freeze Out" from a story by George Hull. The production is said to abound in beautiful scenery, photographed by Harry Fowler.

Betty Compson's second Paramount picture will be "The Woman in the Case," a screen version of Clyde Fitch's well-known stage success of the same title. Penrhyn Stanlaws will direct.

Barbara Castleton has just made her first appearance in a divorce court. Her marital name in Zimmerman and she wants the ties that bind her to George W. severed. Hubby is a lawyer and a resident of Vancouver, B. C.

BURBANK RODEO HAS ENGAGED TEN THOUSAND ACTORS

Elaborate plans are underway for the staging at Burbank on July 2, 3 and 4, of one of the most gigantic spectacles ever presented on this coast.

The celebration is to be given under the auspices of the Burbank Memorial association and the proceeds will go toward the establishment in Burbank of a memorial hall for the American Legion, Red Cross, Veterans of all wars, the Boy Scouts and the National Guard. The scope of the affair is shown by the fact that a cast of more than 10,000 actors have been engaged.

The amphitheater to be used covers acres of ground, and a program extending over three days is being planned.

Wild West show on Saturday, directed by William S. Hart, a fiesta Saturday night, an historical pageant on Sunday, a monster film production, "The Visualized Version of the Bible," on Sunday, wild west contests and a street carnival on the glorious Fourth—these are only the high lights of the celebration.

MURDER MYSTERY IS SOLVED BY U. OF C. PSYCHOLOGIST

(By International News Service)

OAKLAND, June 20.—The mystery of the finding of the body of a woman in a lonely canyon near Martinez, nearly two years ago, is believed to have been definitely solved by Dr. Jau Don Ball, University of California psychologist.

Working on the theory that the manner in which the woman's body, still unidentified, was hidden in a lonely canyon resembled the work of "Bluebeard" Watson, now serving a life sentence in San Quentin for the murder of a wife, the psychologist, who has been making a study of Watson, placed the details of the case before Watson.

According to Ball, Watson did not admit having committed the crime, but stated that he had been in the vicinity of Martinez at the time. He told the psychologist, according to Ball, that while in the state of Washington he was seized with an impulse to kill the woman then living with him. He said they started on an auto trip through Oregon and California.

"I was in Contra Costa county about the time this woman was killed," Ball quotes Watson as saying. "Soon after that I remember being in San Francisco in a peaceful state of mind, a condition that always followed after I had given way to my impulse to kill."

MAKING PINE FLATS CAMP READY FOR FIRST LOT OF BOYS

The preliminary setting-up party for the Y. M. C. A. Pine Flats camp left here yesterday for the camp site. They will be very busy today, setting up tents and putting everything in order to receive the first lot of boys who will arrive in camp next Wednesday evening.

Boys for the first camp will leave Glendale Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock, going to the Red Triangle cabin the the San Gabriel canyon, where they will spend the night, hiking to Pine Flats the following day.

Many supplies have already been packed in, but each day of the camp a pack train will arrive with fresh provisions and mail.

The secretaries in charge are urging parents to write the boys while there, to keep them in touch with home and encourage them to write about their experiences, which they take great pleasure in doing. Not all the time will be occupied by strenuous activities, and several of the public libraries of the county are sending up books for the use of the boys while there.

The association is doing all it can to bring the opportunities of the camp to every boy desirous of attending. There are still some reservations for boys who cannot pay the full price of registration. They can find out about it by telephoning Rex Kelley at his office or his home.

SEWER FLUSHERS FOR LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles has its ever present sewer troubles. Provision has been made by the budget committee of the Los Angeles city council for the purchase and installation of 1,000 automatic sewer flushers in the city's sanitary sewer system. It is estimated these devices will reduce the large amount of water required for flushing sewers about 2,000,000 gallons per day, and relieve the load upon the outfall sewer to that extent.

GREAT HELP

When at a loss for a snappy or intelligent rejoinder, say: "Oh, boy."

It is a great conversational help, especially when you're talking with a girl.

"Cupid works overtime in Los Angeles." There, now, is a little union man who will never strike for forty-four hours a week.

"Clean-Up Day"

The full text of the communication transmitted to the chamber of commerce by City Manager Watson relative to the arrangements for Clean-Up Day is given herewith for the information of citizens:

June 14, 1921.

J. M. Rhoades, Secretary Chamber of Commerce:

Pursuant to the report and recommendation of joint committees representing the chamber of commerce and city appointed to make arrangements for general clean-up day for the ranged that the city will cooperate in this movement as follows.

Tuesday, the 21st instant, will be designated as "Clean-Up Day." The people of the city are requested to gather all waste matter and rubbish that is not easily combustible on their premises and place the same in the alley at the rear of their lot or place it in the street gutter on this date. City teams will gather and dispose of the same the following day. In this connection it is urged that all waste matter and rubbish that is set out to be removed be placed if possible in receptacles convenient for handling. When this is not practicable it should be placed in compact piles so as to require the least time in handling.

Your committee reported large accumulations of rubbish, tree trimmings, etc., in the alleys. It is requested that owners of abutting property gather this in piles convenient for removal. Your committee also reported large accumulations of waste matter, rubbish, etc., at the rear of business buildings in the business district. The business men are requested to have this gathered and placed in receptacles convenient for handling.

Yours sincerely,
T. W. WATSON,
City Manager.

ARCHITECT PRIEST PREPARING PLANS

Architect Alfred F. Priest of this city has been commissioned to prepare plans for the one story brick building to be erected by L. P. Knott at the northwest corner of Louise and Broadway. As stated the other day, it is to contain three stories facing Broadway and one facing Louise. Old gold and ivory faced brick, steel beam composition roof, pine trim, cement floors and plate glass windows will feature the construction.

Mr. Priest is also taking bids for a 10-room residence to be built for W. C. Moloch at San Gabriel. The foundation will be of concrete, walls hollow tile with plaster exterior, clay tile roof, hardwood and pine floors and trim, tile mantel and gas furnace. There will also be a garage with living suite, laundry and billiard room.

NOISELESS beyond bathroom walls

That's one advantage of the Maddock Madera Silent closet that recommends its use in homes of refinement. Its pleasing design, massive appearance and snow white color are other features that gain it favor.

But, the strength of construction which insures years and years of service without repairs; the easy-cleaning features that save work for the housewife, and the sanitary advantages which protect the family's health—those are considerations that make this fixture worthy of a place in your home.

Let us give you a figure showing how little it will cost to install this fixture in your home.

PLAN No. 350

A charming little home in which simplicity dominates, and it is this that appeals to you. The careful grouping of the windows and the clean cut in the entry porch, together with the red brick used in porch steps and chimney, makes a pleasing combination to the white exterior wall and moss-green stained roof.

A careful study of the floor plans for this home will show a most convenient arrangement of rooms, with the bath so located as to permit direct connection. Great care has been given to ventilation, and modern conveniences are provided. See our photographic display for floor plan arrangements.

IN YEARS TO COME
CAN YOUR CHILDREN REFER AND LOOK BACK TO THEIR CHILDHOOD DAYS AS BEING SURROUNDED WITH PROPER ENVIRONMENTS?

Does the Home you are now housing them in reflect comfort, light and cheerfulness, with sanitary conveniences and properly arranged for entertainment, etc., or are they putting up with just any old thing, a rented house in which you and your loved ones are merely existing?

Provide for them a HOME — "HOME, SWEET HOME," the Homiest, Sweetest, Most Convenient, Practical and inexpensive home, reflecting character.

The choicest selection of modern Home Plans ever assembled in one display are conveniently arranged in our office ready for your inspection. Please be advised we are anxious that you avail yourself of the opportunity for becoming acquainted with the practical, distinctive, convenient Home Building Ideas we have procured, and want you to feel that you are incurring no obligation, and are welcome to call at your convenience.

NEW BUSINESS ESTABLISHMENT

One of the most conclusive proofs of the growth of Glendale is the ever-increasing number of new business enterprises.

The most recent of these is the Enterprise Furniture company, 216 East Broadway.

The proprietors of this new store, A. B. Pouder and B. A. Schoullian, are both experienced furniture men. Mr. Pouder has been connected with the retail circles of Billings, Mont., for several years; he is well versed in the house furnishing business in all its phases and has good judgment as to what the trade demands.

Mr. Schoullian has also had valuable experience in the furniture business, and as both these gentlemen have the vision and the faith as regards Glendale's future, they are bound to be valuable factors of the city's growth.

The new store will carry new goods exclusively, and quotes some attractive prices in its announcement in today's issue of the Daily Press.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF ENGAGEMENT

Last Saturday, the Beta Phi sorority of the University of Southern California, had its annual banquet at the Vista del Arroyo hotel in Pasadena, at which time announcement was made of the engagement of Miss Margaret Dick of 309 North Louise street, this city, to Ralph Penland, a young business man of San Francisco.

THE CHRISTIAN HOME IS AMERICA'S NEED

By W. E. EDMONDS

The Sunday morning sermon by Rev. W. E. Edmonds at the Presbyterian church was upon the text, "As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord." Josh. 24:15.

This is a positive declaration—not, "we will try." In these days, this, that and the other, is being urged as society's greatest need. And they are all great. But there is a thing bigger than everything else—the need for a revival of the old-fashioned Christian home. There are certain forces, well organized efforts, which aim at the vitals of the home.

There are four things you have to remember:

First—The home is a divine institution.

Second—In the laws of God there are certain laws how those homes are to be conducted.

Third—Pre-natal influence, which should shape character of all offspring.

Fourth—Proper administration of household life and habits.

God sets forth the unity of husband and wife. "They two shall be one flesh." There are damning influences at work today to undermine the home and break up the family. One of the alarming signs of the times is the proposition of legalizing experimental marriage. God established marriage; where man has put his hand to it he has made a sorry mess of it.

There are many problems that face the family, but God commanded you to bring up children in the fear of the Lord, and he expects you to do it. Catherine Booth, mother of the Salvation Army, boldly said to God: "I will not have a godless child." Can we imagine God indifferent to a vow like that? There is a pre-natal training.

There is the unconscious influence in the home—the influence of the papers and the books and the pictures that are there. People pay plenty for pieces of furniture, but those are not the things that exert influence; they are the good pictures and the good, true music in your home—not the jazzy music.

About week-end trips. These week-ends without God, the influence of these on your children—they are likely to break your heart. And about slumber parties, about these young people getting together indiscriminately. There are too many autos parked in the darkness.

A man at one of our beaches, out early for fishing, found a bunch of young folks, although chaperoned, paired off, sleeping each pair under one blanket. Parents don't know where their children are or what they are doing. The idea of our young folks always having to be entertained—they need to learn to do! The church is your only hope. Oh, anchor to it!

These days there is insurance on everything—is your home insured?

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS

(By International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—En route fom Seattle to San Francisco with 140 passengers on board, the Pacific Steamship Company's steamer, Queen, is being towed to this port by the steamer Johanna Smith after being disabled shortly after midnight Sunday morning by the breaking of the main feed pipe. The accident occurred 397 miles north of here off the Oregon coast. The ship was at no time in danger, the owners announced. It is possible the repairs will be completed at once, enabling the Queen to resume her voyage under her own power.

DENVER, July 20.—Supporters of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, who is being boomed to succeed Samuel Gompers as president of the American Federation of Labor, served notice today that his hat is in the ring to remain until he breaks his silence and removes it.

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 20.—Details of a new continent in the Antarctic region, described as rich in minerals, oils and furs, are giving from Sydney, N. S. W., quoting the Sydney Morning Herald, which announces the finding of the British expedition headed by Dr. Cope. Strange birds of immense size, seals, sea leopards and gorgeous emperor penguins inhabit the land lying beyond Terra del Fuego, the area of which had not yet been computed, according to brief dispatches reaching Sydney from the "bottom of the world."

WASHINGTON, June 20.—President and Mrs. Harding and a small party of guests returned to Washington today from a week-end cruise down the Chesapeake Bay. The yacht Mayflower docked at the navy yard shortly after 9 a. m. The President went directly to the White House, where he had numerous engagements.

ATHENS, Greece, June 20.—Many small craft which were discharging arms for the Turkish nationalists were sunk by Greek warships at Inedoli (Treboli) on the Black seacoast near Trebizond, according to a communique issed here today.

LONDON, June 20.—The Near East issue beteewn Greece and nationalist Turkey must be settled on the field of battle and not in the peace chamber, according to a Smyrna telegram to the Daily Telegraph today, quoting Dr. Stratos, an official of the Greek government.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—Andrew Markham, 74, well-known financier and pioneer lumberman of western Sonoma county, where he still has large holdings, died early today at his home here after a brief illness. He established the lumber center of Markhams in the western part of Sonoma county and had much to do with the building and development of the section.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—Police Judge Sylvester McAtee today received a threatening letter signed "Bloody Ben" and purporting to be from the 'Liberty Lovers' League." The letter announced the days of "plutocrats and politicians" were numbered and declared the "league was back on the job after shipping arms to Ireland." It stated that Mrs. Leone Esmonde, who is charged with authorship of threatening letters, was not a member of the league.

CHICAGO, June 20.—A new witness known as the "mystery girl" of California, was reported today to be en route to Chicago to aid Peggy Joyce in her suit for $10,000 monthly alimony and $100,000 counsel fees from J. Stanley Joyce, lumber king.

LONDON, June 20.—Prémier Lloyd George in opening the British imperial conference today said that Great Britain is ready now to discuss with American statements any proposal for limitation of armaments.

CHICAGO, June 20.—The defense of Mrs. Cora Isabelle Orthwein, confessed slayer of her sweetheart, Herbert Ziegler, wealthy manufacturer, in her Lakeside apartment following a drinking bout, was to be opened today. Her lawyers will attempt to impeach the testimony of the four state's witnesses, including Edward Nelon, the victim's chauffeur. Nelson has testified of an alleged death threat by Mrs. Orthwein three months before Ziegler was shot to death, because he was unfaithful.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Three good sized American freight steamers which recently disappeared in a puzzling fashion while off the mid-Atlantic coast, are now believed to have been taken over by their crews and run into soviet Russian ports, according to information reaching Secretary of Commerce Hoover today.

Among the other optimists is the man who thinks he understands the Einstein theory although he cannot explain it.

JUDGE LOWE HAS "JOINED"

Shades of Izaak Walton! None other than Judge Lowe has joined the fraternity of fishermen and his achievements are such as would make friend Izaak turn green with envy, for the judge has instituted a new vogue in angling.

Judge Lowe first learned that he occupied the role of fisherman when he overheard a conversation that passed between his grandson and a neighboring youngster. It seems that the latter had been bragging of his father's ability with a hook and line and the judge's grandson came back with:

'My grandad's a fisherman, too. He sits in a big chair in the court room at the city hall and fines people for speeding——"

"But that's not fishin,'" cut in the neighboring youngster.

"Oh, yes it is, too," countered the judge's grandson, "my grandad says: 'Yer fined for speedin.' Now fish down in yer pocket and hand over five dollars.'"

GENIUS IS BORN OF DISSATISFACTION AND LACK OF AMUSEMENT IN YOUTH

By MARGERY REX
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, June 20.—"Most great men are born of aged parents."

Those who would give geniuses to the world had better wait till 40 to become parents according to Casper L. Redfield, Chicago member of the American Genetic association. Mr. Redfield declares that the majority of the world's brilliant citizens are the children of men and women of 40 years or more.

"The only great men whom we have been able to discover who were born of young parents," says Mr. Redfield, "were William the Conqueror and Frederick the Great."

Aspects and effects of that strange phenomenon called "genius" have always beguiled scientists into a study of its vagaries, causes and the nearness to a less desirable state of mind (insanity) which it so nearly resembles at times.

But why should the child of the middle-aged be possessed of what almost any mother would be pleased to see develop in her dearest possessions?

Is the mental stability of the adult, his experience and wisdom, transmitted to offspring? Do wise parents in the prime of life have brilliant children? Is this the explanation?

Opinion of Andre Tridon

Nothing of the sort, declares Andre Tridon, psycho-analyst, author and successful explorer into the mysteries of the mind, who offers a unique explanation for the great who are born of the aged.

"It is quite true," explained Mr. Tridon, "that the child of a couple born when the parents are no longer young is sure to be the superior of the first born or even the second child.

"The first born is sure to be inferior to the children that follow when the parents have gradually become better adapted to each other and when a better understanding and more freedom exist between them than in the first years of married life.

"Goethe's parents were old when he was born. So were Napoleon's. And so were those of most famous men who were not the first or second, but usually third, fourth or sometimes last of a large family."

But what is it about a middle-aged mother and an old father that makes for genius?

"The discontent of the child who finds himself with parents that are too old for him," answers Mr. Tridon, who has made scientific excursions about the south poles of the sub-conscious and brought back to the attention of our conscious minds an array of reasons, motives and complexes which really explain phenomena.

"The genius grows out of the dissatisfied child.

"Genius itself is as intense dissatisfaction.

Choice of Genius and Insanity

Parents that are greatly in advance of him as regards age strike no note of comradeship with a child. They do not play with him or amuse him. He decides he does not care to imitate them, as a child always imitates a parent he admires.

"Discontented people have a choice of two future states if their dissatisfaction rises to a high pitch. Insanity or genius must be the choice.

"If such a child then lives in a favorable environment, and is in good mental and physical health, he will become a genius. If not—if he is weak in physique and unsteady in mind—he will arrive at insanity.

"The dissatisfied person who goes insane makes a world for himself that does not exist for other people.

"The dissatisfied but healthy person, the one whose physique can endure his turmoil of feeling seeks to create a new world, too, but not such a mad conception as that in which the demented are happy.

Child Must Have Amusement

"Parents should play with but not try to mould a child. They can't really change him. He imitates them, or not. The child who goes to the movies likes the comedian with funny feet, cane and moustache who can make him laugh. The parent who wishes his son to follow him must gain his attention by making himself amusing, a creator of fun, a desirable person.

"People of 40 or 50 are no longer able to stand on their heads to make their children laugh, so the youngster loses patience with these persons who make him want to change the world all about.

"With only grownups to imitate, or with brothers or sisters enough older so that they try to boss him, the child seems to have a whole group of people playing parent. The second child of a family already has a playmate in the first, provided there is not too great a difference in age.

"Another point in favor of a child born to middle-aged parents is that he is apt to be physically stronger than the first child."

Funeral services were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Little Church of the Flowers, Forest Lawn, for Mrs. Emma S. Hockett Collier.

Mrs. Amanda E. Lawrence
Funeral services will be held for Mrs. Amanda E. Lawrence tomorrow at 2 p. m., at the L. G. Scovern chapel, with interment in Grand View cemetery.

Mrs. Bertha E. Lambert
Mrs. Bertha E. Lambert passed away at her late residence in Los Angeles, June 18. At the age of nine years she came to Tropico with her parents and attended the Tropico schools, making many friends here. She moved from here to Los Angeles where she married, and with her husband, went to Arizona, where they lived for nine years, until recently. She is survived by her husband, three sons, a sister in Prescott, Ariz., and a brother, Sanford Percy, in Sunland. Funeral services were held this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Little Church of the Flowers, Forest Lawn.

Jane Novak claims she did the most strenuous work of her career in the filming of James Oliver Curwood's story, "Kazan." In this production Miss Novak takes part in a thrilling race and battle with a pursuing pack of wolves, treks over the Canadian Northwest by dog team and is caught in a fierce blizzard. "After the production of this picture, which is the most thrilling I have ever appeared in, I had to take a month's vacation to rest up," she said.

Go Home for Summer

(By International News Service)

SACRAMENTO, June 20.—California criminals are migrating eastward to spend the summer months in the exclusive summer resorts and hotels of cities on the Atlantic seaboard and middle west.

This is according to C. S. Morrill, superintendent of the state bureau of criminal identification, who is the official California observer in things criminal.

Merrill states that he can check up on what type of offenders are working the state by keeping careful watch of the crimes committed, the manner of commitment, the loot obtained, etc.

The state identification expert declares that eastern burglars are less cautious in their movements than "native California crooks." The easterners shoot off the locks of doors or cabinets they wish to gain entrance to, says Morrill, while California prowlers gently "pick" the locks and, as a rule, have far greater success in achieving their objective. Between December and April the majority of the locks are shot off, safes are blown up, etc., according to Morrill. After April the California "light fingered" variety are found to be at work, and this is the present situation, Morrill affirms.

"They've left us for the summer," Morrill declared, "but they'll be back by winter as sure as the snow falls in the east. Why? Because these eastern crooks, like all intelligent beings, prefer California's winter climate to that of the east. Also because they know the wealthy easterners have a similar inclination, which makes California a profitable field."

TUNES LYRE AND BURSTS INTO SONG

An enthusiastic Christian Endeavorer of Long Beach tunes his lyre and bursts into song with the coming C. E. convention as his theme.

Samples of his lays have reached the Daily Press, and two of them are appended:

Glendale's the place for you and to me,
Glendale has welcome for every C. E.
But how cam we show you
If you won't come and see?
Come! Come! C-O-M-E!

Going? Sure I'm going to the city of Glendale;
Leaving? Yes, I'm leaving, 6:25 without fail;
Early? Why not early to insure the best attention;
Noting? Ever noting the great themes of the convention;
Devotion? True devotion to the cause of our C. E.
Anxious? Very anxious that his cause may live in me;
Longing? Constant longing for the power of Christ within;
Earnest? Oh so earnest in the fight against all sin.

Best Farm Sold to Miner

(By International News Service)

REDDING, June 20.—The Paulsen ranch at Lewiston, the best farm in Trinity county, has been sold for $50,000 to Lewis Gardella, an Oroville gold dredgerman, who will turn the alfalfa fields of the ranch upside down to get the $1,500,000 in placer gold which the log the prospect drill holes says is there. The farm of 300 acres is split by the Trinity river, which will furnish water for the dredging operations.

If you kill ants, the rest of the colony will begin to dig your grave.

Uncle Walt's Story

TOIL AND TROUBLE

"I MUST admit that life in the sylvan solitudes has its drawbacks in the winter time," confessed the wild man of the woods. "There are times when I think with pensive longing of the heating stove we had in our vine-covered cottage in town, and wish I were seated by it.

"And then come painful recollections which not only reconcile me to my cave in the woods but convince me that I am the most fortunate of men. The thing we call comfort is a delusion. The more modern a house is, the greater nuisance it becomes. The poet says, 'In happy homes we see the light of firesides gleaming warm and bright,' and the description is alluring; but have you ever been responsible for one of those fireplaces gleaming warm and bright? If so, you know it costs more than it's worth.

"My wife was an admirable woman in every respect, and I never weary of extolling her splendid qualities of heart and mind, but she was a crank on neatness. Our house always was like a new pin. She wouldn't stand for anything that looked like disorder, and this characteristic of hers caused me much misery.

"We had an old-fashioned heating stove which burned big chunks of wood, and it might have been possible to be comfortable by it in wintry weather, had my wife been of a more liberal mind. When it became apparent to the most casual observer that bad weather was coming, I wanted to bring in enough wood to last until the elements took in their sign. My plan was to have a large box behind the stove, and fill it with wood. But my beloved Arabella said she'd be everlastingly keelhauled and kerflummixed before she'd have an old woodbox in the sitting room. She exhausted her energy and intellect, she said, making our sitting room a credit to the family, and she wasn't going to have any old boxes kicking around.

"Neither would she permit me to pile a reserve supply of wood in the kitchen. She argued that the kitchen should be as orderly and neat as the parlor, and there was no more striking evidence of bad housekeeping than piles of wood here and there.

"You may ask why I didn't put my foot down and assert myself as head of the family, but when a man has been married a few years he gets tired of putting his foot down, since it never accomplishes anything. He is willing to make any sacrifice for the sake of balmy peace.

"The result of my wife's attitude on this question was that I had to be always drilling out to the woodshed for fuel, and there's nothing more disgusting than leaving a warm sitting room on such an errand. Before leaving the house I had to put on my overshoes, so I wouldn't bring in any snow when I returned. Having secured my armload of wood, I had to lay it down on the back porch while I took off my overshoes, and then gather it up again and carry it into the house.

"This done, my estimable wife would follow my track to the back door, with her hands in the air, in a gesture of despair, saying I had left a trail of bark and slivers and other refuse, and if I had the first instincts of a gentleman I'd clean up the mess I had made. Having the second as well as the first instincts of a gentleman, I got the broom and dustpan and removed the debris. It was the same way when I carried out the ashes. I never could carry out ashes without dropping samples on the floor, and then I'd have to get down on my marrowbones and clean up, and by the time I seated myself by the stove to rest, the fire would be low again, and I'd have to scoot into the howling tempest once more. It was this sort of thing that drove me, a homeless wanderer, from the busy haunts."

The Soul of Gallantry.

"I'm so sorry," said the beautiful motorist who had knocked down a pedestrian.

"Madam," replied her victim, as he made a sweeping bow, "I can't say that it's a pleasure to be struck by an automobile, but when the driver happens to be such a fair creature as you, I find that my vocabulary of oaths is reduced to a simple 'Tut, tut.'"—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Advantages.

Peter Lower was digging away at the weeds in his potato patch. "Makes it much harder to have the weeds so thick, don't it?" remarked Lem Beebe, leaning over the fence.

"Nope, easier," declared Pete; "you don't have to walk so far to the next weed."—Everybody's Magazine.

Trained.

"Ever know why folks say 'as smart as a steel trap?'"

"Well, it's because a steel trap knows when to shut up."

If a black cat crosses your patch from left to right in the dark of the moon it's extremely bad luck. To break the spell make a cross with your right foot in the dust and spit in the center of the cross.

The cause of warts has not been made clear, but many an old-time school boy was doubtless convinced that they were spread by contact and evidence of Drs. Wile and Kingery now seems to show that ordinary warts are produced by a specific infectious agent, that differs from most infections in not thriving on ordinary mediums, and that belongs to the class of viruses that cannot be caught on any filter. In the experiments reported to the Journal of the American Medical association, ordinary warts were removed and ground in a mortar with salt, the mash obtained being passed through the finest filter under pressure. The filtrate was shown by the usual tests to be sterile, and it was injected into several persons. In four to eight weeks tiny warts appeared at the points of injection, some of them gradually increasing to the size of a split pea. Inoculation with these warts gave a second generation, and this proof of contagion is strengthened by the tendency of ordinary warts to grow in crops, their transmission by contact, and the appearance of frequent multiple daughter warts.

The motor snowplow will find its way far toward the Arctic circle next winter, according to Vice Consul G. G. Fuller, as a number of places in northern Norway will probably adopt it. For most of the country ordinary roads are the only means of communication and these—often too narrow for two sleighs to pass—must be kept open. In the snowplow experiments made the first difficulty was to obtain automobiles or tractors of sufficient power. The ordinary truck and even the agricultural tractor cannot draw the plow when the snow is heavy, and it is thought that a four wheel drive may be necessary. In many cities, where the streets are kept well cleared by snowplows various American and Continental tractors seem to be more efficient than horses except for the first cost, and their superiority would be unquestioned if they could be employed during the summer for street cleaning or sprinkling. If trucks could perform the work, they would be preferred to tractors on account of their usefulness for many other purposes.

The future supply of liquid fuel was a leading topic at the last meeting of the American Chemical Society, and it was pointed out that the estimated unmined petroleum supply in the United States is about 6,000,000,000 barrels, which the present rate of production will exhaust in thirteen years. Two promising substitutes are furfuraldehyde and alcohol. Furfuraldehyde, or furfurol, is a volatile liquid from the distillation of sugar, starch, etc., with sulphuric acid, and recent experiments indicate that utilizing the waste cellulose of cornstalks and cobs might produce 3,900,000,000 gallons—sufficient to replace the present supply of gasoline. It is believed that this fuel's disadvantage of causing pre-ignition in the motor could be overcome. Utilizing tropical growths—such as cassava, nipa palm, and especially bamboo—was considered, and it was found that selected species of bamboo planted over 63,000 square miles of the Philippines should yield cellulose material for alcohol equivalent to the present consumption of gasoline. A small area in the Philippines is already producing 3,000,000 gallons of "nipa alcohol" yearly.

A catalztic heater devised by L. Lumiere and J. Herch in the first winter of the war has developed into a type of apparatus known as "Thermix." The original purpose was to provide the French aviatios service with a means of warming radiators of motors without risk of setting fire, but the new heater is stated by La Nature to be made in sizes ranging from one siutable for the pocket of one that may serve to temper the chill of an ordinary room. Satalysis, now so much used in chemical processes, was discovered more than a century ago by Sir Humphrey Davy, who found that when a heated platinum spiral was immersed in a mixture of inflammable gas and air it would remain incandescent though unchanged, the gas being decomposed. The new product has the form of a metalic cylinder, with gasoline soaked cotton or other porous material at the bottom, and has a wick terminating just below a plug of asbestos impregnated with platinum. The platinized plug being heated, the rising gasoline is so changed by catalysis that a temperature of about 250 degrees C. is maintained without flame.

Lightning often strikes more than once—even frequently—in the same place and vicinity, and experts of the United States agricultural department are considering the possibility of mapping the lightning zones in the national forests, and for such zones providing fire lines, regulated grazing, and cleaning out of dead trees, with fire protective methods. It is believed that mapping would show these zones closely related to certain types of topography and more or less localized sections of many forests. The importance of the matter is shown by the fact that lightning causes 30 per cent of the national forest fires, and in the very unusual season of 1920 set over half of the 5078 fires.

A miniature flour mill and bakery is one of the establishments of Washington, the most cosmopolitan scientific center of the world. It forms part of the equipment of the bureau of markets, and is served with wheat from many countries, to supply information for the preparation and revision of federal grain standards. The hundreds of samples from every part of the world represent various grades, conditions and varieties of wheat. These are cleaned, scoured, tempered, ground, bolted and baked in an electric oven, often being made into bread. The weight, volume, color and texture of the baked bread are studied by specialists, and the results are recorded as belonging to the particular type of wheat under test. All samples are treated exactly alike in milling, mixing in bread and baking. An interesting procedure is the measurement of the volume of the loaf, which is placed in a receptacle of known capacity and then covered with flaxseed to the top of the vessel. The seed fills every crevice, the volume of the bread being shown by measuring the flaxseed and subtracting its volume from that of the receptacle. A surprising difference appears in the volume of loaves from different varieties of wheat.

The village smithy, the plumber's or tinsmith's shop may be not so harmless as they have been supposed. From researches of more than a quarter of a century, Dr. James Gardner, English health officer, concludes that nearly invisible hot fumes spreading from the chimneys of these workshops, carry a considerable cargo of benzine and naphthalene, with manganese and other metallic poisons, and that the inhalation of these vapors tends to affect the skin and respiratory and nervous systems. The eventual result may be some form of skin disease, rheumatism, pneumonia or even cancer. Collecting the poisonous material in a cap or hood for the chimney is a suggested remedy.

The solution of a vexatious problem is claimed to be offered by a tube of stiffened fiber which is inserted as a screw-socket into holes drilled by a special tool, and automatically expands to fill the hole when the screw is driven into it. Special screws are not necessary, as the plugs are made for regular screw sizes. The device is adapted for use in all kinds of material, such as wood, brick, concrete, stone, plaster, glass or any metal, and for such purposes as holding up shelves, bathroom fixtures, coat hooks and many others. A pull of from 40 to 1250 pounds has been resisted, varying with materials and screws.

The new electric rivet-heater of the General Electric company consists of an air-cooled transformer, with a single-turn short-circuited secondary, the rivet to be heated forming part of the secondary circuit. Tappings from the primary winding to a drum controller provide for six different voltages on the secondary, and adjustment for various sizes of rivets or rates of heating is effected by simply setting the handle of the drum controller.

CARRY A PLEASANT SMILE TO THE SICK

Many of us well-meaning fellows are chary of kindly words and acts. A friendly slap on the back, accompanied by a pleasant word of greeting, adds to the making of a perfect day. Cultivate smile wrinkles—they are a great asset. Carry them into the sick room. Do not ask the patient how he is feeling. Your good common sense ought to tell you he's feeling bum, if he's on the "sick list." Tell him he's looking fine. Do not bore him by staying too long. Leave him a rose or a bunch of flowers or send them. Tell him you will call again—and keep your word, your visit, your smile wrinkles, your little lie about how fine he is looking—if it is a lie—and your flowers, may do him more good than medicine. Try it; you stand to win; you can not lose, because in this game of kindness there are no blanks while the deal is on.

A word of appreciation during life is better than a eulogy after death.

A rose in a sick room is worth two wreaths at a funeral.

WE THANK YOU

GLENDALE FOR MINE

Your response was fine to the first call for entertainment made Saturday. Many were not home and some few said "No," but the big majority were willing and anxious to do their part in providing sleeping accommodations for the host of Christian Endeavor Delegates due in Glendale SATURDAY THIS WEEK.

A PLACE TO SLEEP

Now we need rooms for at least 1000 more delegates. It will never do to send these young folks to Pasadena or Los Angeles. Glendale CAN and WILL do this job right!

It is not positively necessary to provide breakfast. Do not hesitate on that account. Your spare room, sleeping porch or garage will do for June 25 to 29.
